

This topographic map depicts the Murbad region, a hilly area in Maharashtra, India. The map is characterized by numerous contour lines indicating varying elevations, with peaks reaching up to 1200 meters. The central part of the map is dominated by the Murbad area, which is surrounded by several other villages and regions. To the north, the Khutal Bangla and Nandgaon areas are visible. To the east, the Ambele Kh. and Manivali Kh. regions are shown. To the south, the Talwali Tarf Ghorad and Thune areas are depicted. To the west, the Kanharle and Vidhe regions are visible. The map also shows the Saralgaon, Narayangaon, Nagaon, and Kodawale areas. The Murbad area is marked with a prominent yellow line, and the surrounding regions are marked with various colors and patterns. The map includes a grid of latitude and longitude coordinates, with the latitude ranging from 19°15'00" N to 19°17'30" N and the longitude ranging from 73°29'30" E to 73°32'00" E. The map is a detailed representation of the terrain and infrastructure of the Murbad region.

This topographic map depicts the Murbad region, a hilly area in Maharashtra, India. The map is characterized by numerous contour lines indicating varying elevations, with peaks reaching up to 1200 meters. The central part of the map is dominated by the Murbad area, which is surrounded by several other villages and regions. To the north, the Khutal Bangla and Nandgaon areas are visible. To the east, the Ambele Kh. and Manivali Kh. regions are shown. To the south, the Talwali Tarf Ghorad and Thune areas are located. To the west, the Kanharle and Vidhe regions are present. The map also shows the Saralgaon, Narayangaon, Nagaon, and Kodawale areas. The Murbad area is marked with a prominent yellow line, and the surrounding regions are marked with various colors and patterns. The map includes a grid of latitude and longitude coordinates, with the latitude ranging from 19°15'00" N to 19°17'30" N and the longitude ranging from 73°29'30" E to 73°32'00" E. The map is a detailed representation of the terrain, showing the distribution of land, water, and vegetation. The map is a valuable resource for understanding the geography and topography of the Murbad region.

